Over 2,500 metres of pebbled lake shores are suitable for bathing and the entire area of the Jarun centre is intertwined with miles of walk and bike paths.
MAIN EVENTS

This week's HOT LIST

This week you can enjoy
The international Fireworks festival at Lake Bundek or visit gastronomic festival Slatki gušti, festival of sweets at Zrinjevac park. It's time for beer festival and party's

SLATKI GUŠTI - FESTIVAL OF SWEETS

The summer of gastronomic festivals kicks off with the festival of sweets Slatki gušti taking place in Zrinjevac Park. The festival was launched four years ago and hosts the city's best pastry shops. While the seductive scent of baked goods and pancakes fills the park, you can browse the stalls offering a wide range of baking and pastry tools, fruit products and fine dessert wines. We recommend that you visit the event in the morning to avoid long lines later in the day and evening. Each day pastry fans can take part in a number of workshops and fun competitions such as the art of pancake making. In the evening the performances of jazz musicians, salsa and swing dancers and cheerful visitors create a unique atmosphere.

FIREWORKS FESTIVAL

The International Fireworks Festival will take place from 16 to 18 June at Lake Bundek. The Fireworks Festival is a unique event in this part of Europe that attracts more and more enthusiasts, fans of fireworks and good performances every year. The festival lasts three days and is of a competitive nature. This year, deminers from Finland, Italy and Croatia will participate. The program starts at 8.30 PM every day.

MASTODON

After two years of absence Mastodon, one of the greatest and most important metal bands of our days, returns to Zagreb. They’ll be promoting their new album titled “Emperor of Sand” at Tvornica kulture on Subićeva, with the Norwegian 6-member band Kvelertak as their special guests.
For the third time Medvedgrad will be the site of the best entertainment in the city. The organizers have promised an all-round party experience for all visitors. Being true to the event’s moto “Sunset to sunrise” the party will kick off as early as 4pm, so the dance and fun will start in full daylight. You can enter and join the party by 7pm. Aldo Morro, Full Ferry, Vanillaz, Kosta Radman and Tom Bug are only some of the 16 performures from the line-up that will take over the Medvedgrad stage on Saturday.

This mini-festival of beer and fun will be held for the fourth year in a row. The two-day event set in a fairy-tale summer garden at Savska 160 will thrill beer aficionados looking for some fun. The festival is a part of the Summer on the Terrace, organized by the Vintage Industrial Bar and Kavez and running from late June to the end of August. Viva la Piva starts on Friday at 6pm and is set to close on Sunday at 5am. Friday night features the band Twins Rock, while the Telefon Blues Band takes over the stage on Saturday. The festival is a chance to try and enjoy over 30 brands of reasonably priced beers.

Sights you have to visit in Zagreb

Start your Zagreb adventure in the old upper town of Gradec, explore Kaptol, the historical quarter, and admire Lenuci’s Green Horseshoe.

Mirogoj

Mirogoj, the central cemetery in Zagreb, is located on the slopes of Medvednica and is considered to be one of the most beautiful cemeteries in Europe. However, Mirogoj is also a beautiful park and an outdoor art gallery. The arcades are the most beautiful part of the cemetery – the construction began in 1879, only three years after Mirogoj was opened, and they were completed thirty-eight years later. Mirogoj is the resting place of many famous Croats and the complex also contains a number of valuable monuments made by prominent Croatian artists.
The picturesque St. Mark’s Church is one of the oldest buildings in Zagreb and one of its symbols, distinctive for its roof made of multicolor roof tiles. The church has existed since the 13th century, but its famous roof is much younger – it was installed during its most recent reconstruction in the second half of the 19th century. The roof features emblems of the Croatian regions of Dalmatia and Slavonia on the left side, and the Zagreb City emblem on the right side. There are three altars in the interior, sculpted by Ivan Meštrović, and Kljakić’s sacristy painted from the floor to the ceiling. Organ concerts often take place here.

As one of the best preserved monuments of old Zagreb, this is the only remaining gate of the former city defense system. It was built in the 13th century and given its present design in 1760. The passageway within the gate contains a chapel with a picture of St. Mary of the Stone Gate, the city guardian, which according to a legend survived a major fire in 1731 without any damage.
The history of the Art Pavilion is in a way the history of the Croatian 20th century fine arts. This is one of the oldest exhibition areas in this part of Europe, specifically designed for major exhibitions. It is situated between the Central Railway Station and Zrinjevac, in the very heart of Lenuci's Green Horseshoe.

Zagreb Cathedral

The Cathedral of the Assumption of Blessed Virgin May, Saint Stephen and Saint Ladislaus, or the Zagreb Cathedral is the largest Croatian sacral building and one of the most valuable monuments of the Croatian cultural heritage. The church has stood in the same location since 1093 and the construction of the present building began in the 13th century. The last major reconstruction was made at the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries, while the towers are still being reconstructed in stages. The church is open for tourists, may be entered at any time of the day, and a mass in Croatian is held several times a day.

Funicular

The funicular provides organized public transport of passengers to the upper part of Zagreb. It connects the Downtown and the Old Town every working day and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 6.30am to 10pm and has to this day retained its original exterior design and structure, as well as most of the technical characteristics given to it by its builders in 1890 when it was opened. It leaves every ten minutes and the price of one ride is HRK 4. Compared to other cable cars intended for public transport, its track of only 66 meters makes it the shortest one in the world.
Hundreds of food producers from Zagreb and its surrounding areas arrive every day at the Dolac marketplace, located only a few steps from the central city square, to sell fresh fruits, vegetables, meat, cheese and cream, flowers... Dolac is referred to as the city belly because it has fed the local residents for 85 years. At the top of the stairs there is a sculpture of a traditional producer and seller - kumica.

Croatian National Theater

The neo-baroque Croatian National Theater building, a masterpiece of late historicism designed by the Austrian architect Ferdinand Fellner and German architect Hermann Helmer, is certainly one of the most impressive buildings in Zagreb. Opened in 1895 and seating 750 people, it has one iron curtain and seven painted curtains displayed on different formal occasions. Theatre goers can enjoy drama, opera or ballet there.

St. Catherine’s Church

St. Catherine's Church is the most famous Croatian baroque church. It is located on Katarina Zrinska Square, erected as part of a former Jesuit complex in Zagreb Old Town. It was built from 1620 to 1632 and its six side chapels contain five baroque altars dating back to the 17th century, and a marble altar from 1732.

LOTRSČAK

The tower was built in mid-13th century to protect the south city gate and has been used throughout history as living quarters, a warehouse, a coffee shop... Tourists can enjoy a spectacular view of the city from the top of the tower, visit an exhibition or buy some local products in the souvenir shop. The Grič Cannon is on the fourth floor, and it greets the residents of Zagreb every day precisely at noon.

DOLAC

Hundreds of food producers from Zagreb and its surrounding areas arrive every day at the Dolac marketplace, located only a few steps from the central city square, to sell fresh fruits, vegetables, meat, cheese and cream, flowers... Dolac is referred to as the city belly because it has fed the local residents for 85 years. At the top of the stairs there is a sculpture of a traditional producer and seller - kumica.

LOCALS ABOUT ZAGREB

IRIS IDL (60), employee at the Archives

I WOULD RECOMMEND THE OLD TOWN, ST. MARK'S CHURCH, THE STONE GATES, AND THE SURROUNDING STREETS AND ALLEYS. THE OLD TOWN HAS A SOUL.

ACO NIKOLIĆ (63), security guard

"TECHNICAL MUSEUM IS ONE OF THE PLACES TO SEE. I HAVE PASSED BY THE MUSEUM A HUNDRED TIMES, BUT UNFORTUNATELY I HAVE NEVER HAD TIME TO GO IN. MY FRIENDS TELL ME IT IS A GREAT PLACE TO VISIT."

ROKO ŠKILJO (19), student

I SUGGEST TOURISTS FIRST COME TO THE MAIN SQUARE, AND THEN EXPLORE THE ENTIRE OLD TOWN. AFTER THAT, THEY SHOULD STOP BY KAVANICA AT CVJETNI TRG FOR A CUP OF COFFEE – THIS IS MY FAVOURITE PLACE FOR EXPERIENCING THE VIBRANT ATMOSPHERE OF THE CITY.

Zagreb has many different museums, suited to every taste. From those dedicated to the greatest artists, contemporary arts or sport stars, to illusions and torture. With so many museums to choose from, it’s hard to know where to begin. The good news is, you’re in the right place. Here you can find a highly selective (but representative) list of museums in Zagreb.
The Museum presents devices used for torture and execution from ancient times to date. The exhibition is accompanied by audio and video materials and is highly interactive.

The collection of the Mimara Museum comprises an art collection donated by the collector Ante Mimara to the people of Croatia in 1973, provided that it remains permanently displayed. In addition to the materials donated by Mimara, the Museum temporarily exhibits works of many artists and organises events.

Wether you like sports, arts or history, Zagreb has a perfect museum for you.

The Technical Museum is divided into 10 departments. The Planetarium, the Mine and the Nikola Tesla Demonstration Workshop are the most popular ones and are available to visitors with guidance every day. The materials kept in the specialized library are also publicly available, at request and in the reading room.

The most photographed statue in Zagreb is that of Matoš sitting on a bench, overlooking the city. Not many visitors will go by without sitting next to him, putting their hands round him and trying to hear what he is thinking. This monument was sculpted by Ivan Kožarić.

The museum includes 70 exhibits that help understand the human vision and perception. At the end of the tour, visitors will find a play area where they can test their logical skills. Everything the is allowed to be photographed.
Lauba cooperates, exhibits and shares knowledge with peer institutions to keep up to date with and encourage modern art production in Croatia. In addition to unusual exhibits and features, Lauba is designed as a House for People and Art, available to all audiences.

The Museum is a result of a traveling exhibition of items deriving from broken relationships. An emotional separation may be overcome by donating memories to the museum collection and thus recognizing the end of the relationship. The Kulmer Palace is full of different objects, from matchboxes to wedding gowns.

A fearless fighter for human rights and the first female journalist in Croatia has always been one step ahead of her time. She became famous for her romantic novels with elements of national history. The statue is the work of Stjepan Gračan.

At the top of the stairs leading to Dolac from Ban Jelačić Square there is a sculpture of a kumica, a woman selling her own produce, wearing traditional clothes. It was erected in 2006.
Hrelić is a flea market with style, where people sell absolutely everything you can imagine. No visit comes without at least one purchase. Maybe it will be a vintage hair drier? Or a typewriter weighing five kilograms? Maybe your senior relatives will like those old watches? And who knows, if you are a good bargainer, you can end up with ten LPs for the price of one. Don’t think of Hrelic as a dirty place (although it is not that clean, to be honest). As a matter of fact, chances are you will meet a lot of influential Croatian people there. Theater and film workers always seek inspiration or props for artistic projects. Musicians are pursuing old instruments in good shape, while literature people seek books and albums for their needs. Stamp collectors are also on duty, as well as collectors of various natures. You don’t need to belong in either of these groups to love being on Hrelic, of course. If you end up liking the place, bargain away!

Nobody really knows how Hrelic came to be. But shortly after its founding, it turned into one of Zagreb’s most legendary sites. On the farthest outskirts of Croatian capital, you can see this large fair of used goods. From clothes to shoes, from vintage items to computer components sold without guarantee, everything can be found on this strange and unique place. Sounds interesting? Then come with a large bag, sharpen your bargain talents, and indulge into the craziest shopping spree you ever took part in!

How to reach Hrelic? The easiest way is to take a cab. The average price from Zagreb’s center should be around 50 HRK/6.50 €. If you have your own vehicle, you will have to pay 10 HRK/1.30 € for parking. If you use a tram, take numbers 14 to Zapruđe or 6 to Most Mladosti, and walk a bit next to the causeway.

Hrelić is organized every Sunday and Wednesday. Coming early in the morning is a good idea (you don’t want others to buy all the good stuff) but coming late has an advantage of huge sales. Be advised, Hrelic is not the cleanest space in the world, but its charm is undeniable.
Britanski trg (British Square) in Zagreb is, of course, named after the British and the good relations they had with Croats throughout history. It can easily be reached from the capital’s main square, Trg bana Jelacica, by ten minute walk, or by simply taking two stops with a tram. If you choose the latter, get on a 1, 6 or 11 tram heading east. The square is often bypassed by tourist guides, usually because it lacks cultural features such as monuments or statues. However, it is still a charming place which has many things for visitors to enjoy. After all, experiencing a country doesn’t necessary mean one has to run around museums and frantically snap photos. Sometimes, a quiet hour on a café terrace watching people passing by, flipping through a magazine with an unpronounceable name or learning small bits of a language from the closest table can be more fulfilling then a constant rush for photo material.

British square is also known as Mali Plac (“Little Market-place”) as it is smaller than Dolac. Yet it is still of considerable size and offers everything needed for a good lunch. During the workweek, Britanac is usually crowded with potatoes, salads, apples, pines and all other things you see at the greengrocers. It opens early in the morning (as a matter of fact, if you pass by it around 6:00 a.m. chances are you will see people prepping veggies on the tables) and closes around 3 pm. Older women, known as kumice, usually sell their own cheese and cream. On Sundays, the vegetables are replaced with antique items available for sale. Old telephones, ancient lamps, interesting books (some even in foreign languages), early 20th-century dolls, medals, uniforms, swords and treasure chests are just a few things you can find in this open-air museum with exhibits on sale. A good place to visit for your own entertainment, and also for buying gifts for friends and family back home. A club of dedicated Citroen owners sometimes organizes an old-timer car exhibition in the evening hours. Not only can you see these classy European machines in their full glory, but you can also talk to the people who own them and ask for mechanical advice or the story behind the charming vehicles.
Different ways to explore ZAGREB

Drive in an old Ford car, take a segway tour through city center or ride in old routemaster doubledecker bus and get to know Zagreb's history in a night tour around Gornji grad or take a bus tour.

The Secrets of Grič

The Secrets of Grič is an interactive, night-time theatre tour, revealing the historical and mysterious side of the capital. Visitors actively participate in the re-enactment of historical events – some will move you to tears, and some will make your skin crawl. The tour is based on historical facts, on romanticised version taken over from the novels of Marija Jurić Zagorka, and on famous city legends.

The oldest inhabitant is a crocodile from Nile, who came to live here in 1972. The ZOO organizes events, workshops and presentations. The ZOO was under construction for two years, and following the completions of works last year it was opened for visitors. One of the novelties is a large aviary for hundreds of African birds.

There is also the new entrance with video surveillance and a visitor counter, an additional east entrance, a souvenir shop with around 300 authentic souvenirs that is three times larger than the previous one, and an additional educational centre. The boiler room that used to run on fuel oil has been turned into an environment-friendly one, running on pellets.

Two bridges have been built and cultural monuments have been restored - the Napoli Fisherman (Napuljski ribar), and the Lion’s Bridge (Lavlji most), adorned with four new stone lion statues onto which every child wants to climb to have their picture taken.

The spacious Kidepo Lion’s Rock was also erected, as well as a new enclosure for the globally endangered red panda, and a Madagascar area. A so-called “spider’s web” made out of rope, trampolines, benches and deck chairs has been fitted on Swan Island (Labudi otok) which has recently been connected via Darwin’s Bridge.

FREE RIDE ON THE TOURIST TRAIN

A few years ago Zagreb Electric Tram company (ZET) introduced free train rides for tourists, and kids are crazy about them. The train rides every weekend between 10am and 7.20pm, every 40 minutes, along the following route: Ban Jelačić Square, Ilica, Frankopanska, Masarykova, Teslina, Praška, Jurišićeva to Trg žrtava fašizma, and then back to the central square.
The biggest model train in Southeast Europe can be found in Gundulićeva street 4. The man behind the idea is Antun Urbić, who got his first model train from Switzerland when he was five. He was fascinated by mini trains which looked exactly like the real thing, so he decided to make his first model in the attic of his house. He soon developed the idea of opening it for visitors. Today he has over 1000 meters of rails and nearly 100 trains, railways stations, and shops. During winter days and the very famous Advent in Zagreb event a model of the Snow Queen ski race was added, and it was a huge success. Backo Mini Express broke all records when it introduced an Advent Fairytale, hosting more than 2700 foreign visitors, which is a 50% increase compared to last year. Backo Mini Express is open for visitors every day.

Go to Popov toranj and reach for the stars... The tower dome is home to a century-old Zagreb observatory, opened on 5 December 1903. City fathers believed that Popov toranj was ideal for an observatory, as it stands high enough over the city, and the telescope can reach above the polluted atmosphere layers, where the clear sky opens right before your eyes. The tower is in the very centre of Zagreb, and can be reached on foot.

Children who are 14 and older can play a popular game room escape – they are locked in a room, and have 60 minutes to find a way out by solving different puzzles. Considering the size of the city, Zagreb's offer of room escape venues places it in the very top – the total of 10 rooms are on offer in four locations. Escape room is a game for two to six players (sometimes a maximum of five), who have an hour to discover all hidden objects and keys, decipher codes, solve puzzles and riddles, think logically, and work together on solving the problem and finally breaking out. Children and parents can choose from four different room escapes in Zagreb and play the one they like the most.

Not far from Zagreb city center, a center for children and adults has been opened which gives you an opportunity to spend your free time in a fun and educational way choosing between 250 wooden games, puzzles and different brain teasers and riddles. A smart playground is an educational center unique in the world, intended for both children and adults, opened on Zavrttica, not far from Zagreb city center. It is an entirely new concept which gives visitors an opportunity to spend their free time in a fun and educational way choosing between 250 wooden games, puzzles and different brain teasers and riddles. All visitors in the educational center have an opportunity to stimulate their brain and keep it fit through play and fun, with professional staff that will help them solve games and apply what they learned in everyday life. The first part of this educational center consists of a smart playroom where all age groups are allowed, whether coming as families, individuals or groups. Here, they can play games that require a lot of brain racking, such as the world’s most famous brain teasers: tangram, pentomino, the love test, pyramid, and many others. Some of the games are of XXL size, so solving them activates the entire human body, and some are competitive, so players need to make an effort to think as fast and hard as they can. The smart playroom is open for all visitors, every day from 9 am until 10 pm. All activities can be carried out in Croatian, English or Spanish.

Zagreb's gastronomy is a perfect combination of culinary traditions – of the clergy, the nobility and then the bourgeois, the so-called purgeraj (from the German word Burger meaning citizen), and the rustic tradition of the picturesque ring encircling the city: Zagorje and Prigorje, which developed for nine long centuries. In the urban life of Zagreb, the residents always wanted to show they were able to keep up with the global culinary trends present in major metropolitan centers in neighboring countries – Vienna and Budapest. Women from the villages of Zagorje and Prigorje brought first-class fresh ingredients to marketplaces in Zagreb on a daily basis. This top selection available in Zagreb's marketplaces has spread to all Croatian regions, as it becomes evident in the restaurants all over the city: Dalmatian, Istrian and Slavonian cuisine. They are now an exhibition of Croatian gastro icons.

MUST TRY
These are the true flavours of Zagreb

In local restaurants ask for specialties from this region and shop for products that reflect the unique identity of Zagreb surroundings

AUTHOR RENE BAKALOVIĆ
Zagorje Soup
Croats love soups and make them from all kinds of ingredients. Broths like this Zagorje soup can replace an entire meal. This is no wonder - a real Zagorje soup inevitably contains enough good cured meat, dry and fresh mushrooms, root vegetables, onions, garlic and potatoes, hot paprika, pepper, laurel leaf, wine vinegar and, finally, a spoon of sour cream.

Kram Pogačé
Pork scratches are not exclusive to Croatia, but nobody is as mad about them as Croats are. The best ones are sold at very high prices. We love pork scratches so much we put them in the basic food product - pogača, the predecessor of bread. Kram pogača is a small pogača seasoned with ground pork scratches and pepper. These small bites are perfectly combined with a glass of wine or beer.

Štrukli
Štrukli is a favorite cooked or gratinated pastry, a result of the transformation of the German strudel on its way east. Štrukli are commonly mentioned in the context of presenting Croatia to the world. It makes sense: the stuffing consists of cheese and cream. In Esplanade, the most prestigious hotel both in former Yugoslavia and now in Croatia, štrukli has been enjoyed by kings and queens, the most prominent statesmen, and the greatest stars of the film and music industries.

Turkey with mlinci
In its native country of America, turkeys are now huge domesticated birds. The Zagorje turkey is the smallest protected species, semi-wild and requiring plenty of outdoor space to survive. This is why its meat is fabulously succulent. It does not require lots of spices, only mlinci, a traditional kind of pasta gratinated on a wood oven and then doused in gravy, as a side dish.

Cottage cheese and cream
This two-piece dairy package has developed into a symbol of authentic culinary heritage. Extremely simple, yet very delicate. This cult-status duo is only produced from the milk of cows grazing unpolluted pastures, unquestionably fresh full-fat sour cream and carefully drained cheese. Beside fresh bread, you only need a little salt and perhaps some hot paprika.

Wine is one of the most valuable elements of the Croatian tradition and gastronomic heritage. For as long as these parts have been inhabited, wine has been an inseparable component of both the daily routine and festivities. Over centuries, each Croatian wine region developed its own distinctive wine varieties that fully adapted to the climate, soil and expectations of their residents.

When you find yourself in one of the wine regions of Croatia such as Dalmatia, Istria, Hilly Croatia or Slavonia, don’t forget to taste some of the wines favorite among the local population. In Dalmatia, it is plavac mali. This is the most important and the most represented red variety in Croatia. It yields soft, ripe and succulent wines when offered in a lower price range and originates from Dalmatian fields situated in ravines hidden in endless karst. On the other hand, when it comes from steep slopes facing the sun and the sea, usually from islands or peninsulas such as Hvar, Brač and Pelješac, it gives powerful, warm, strong and ripe wines, perfectly reflecting the harsh conditions that created them with their richness and concentration.

When in Istria, malvazija is the most important variety to try. A white wine full of freshness and pleasant aromas of ripe fruits, such as peaches and hints of blossoming acacias. In addition to this basic edition, malvazija can also be found in more ambitious forms after ageing for a long time and developing a more complex aromatic set.

When in hilly Croatia, look for aromatic white varieties such as sauvignon blanc or Riesling (locally referred to as rajnski rizling). They also use many other varieties to make wine in the region, but what they all have in common are lively acids and a highly refreshing character. The wines of hilly Croatia work ideally as an aperitif, refreshment in summertime, or to go with a light meal.

Slavonia and the Danube Region are an empire of graševina, the most important and represented white variety, but also a general type.

Graševina is a good-times wine, and is ideal to go with your lunch. It is normally bold and refreshing with attractive aromas of apple, pineapple or citrus, and is offered at very affordable prices. Sometimes, when it comes from later harvests, it shows quite a different face and its aromas.

In Dalmatia you must try plavac mali and in Istria malvazija tip!
It is time to go outside

It is situated in the western part of the city, and it consists of six islands (Trešnjevka Island, Universiade ‘87 Island, Wilderness Island, Croatian Youth Island, the Island of Love, the Island of Rowers), lakes and five beaches. Jarun is an excellent place for visitors of all ages, as it offers a large number of activities. There are pedestrian and bicycle paths, paths for running and rollerblading, miniature golf, and one of the best rowing trails in Europe. In summer visitors can have a swim in the lake and sunbathe on the beaches waving Blue Flag, which is a sign of cleanliness. Apart from numerous recreational activities, there are also restaurants and cafes on Jarun. During weekend nights the clubs on the coast of the “Zagreb sea” become a place of entertainment.

The main exhibit is the statue of Apoxyomenos, antique bronze athlete that had been found in the waters around the island. This impressive and well-preserved statue is 192 centimetres tall, found in 1997 in the waters between the Vele Orjule and Lošinj islands; it was taken out in 1999.

The bronze statue dates back to 1-2 ct. BC. It is assumed that it ended up in the Lošinj waters after fierce Kvarner bora wind hit a boat. At that time Kvarner was on the ancient Adriatic route going through the ancient Liburnian town of Osor, separating the islands of Cres and Lošinj. The route was in fact connecting ancient Dalmatia and Istria. The apoxyomenos is the only large bronze monument found so far on the east coast of the Adriatic, and in the last several years it has become a symbol of the Croatian culture heritage and an extraordinary achievement of restaurateurs.
Kvarner takes pride in its maritime heritage, encountered in every town on the coast and on the islands. Regattas have been organised in Kvarner for ages, and the inhabitants have joined forces with neighbouring Slovenia to keep the tradition alive.

Mala barka regatta has been developed with the aim of creating a new tourist product based on maritime tradition, a part of IPA Slovenia-Croatia cross border programme of valorising maritime, fishing and shipbuilding tradition in the North Adriatic. Mala barka is traditional sailing boats regatta held in ports along Kvarner. It is only natural to include a rich maritime history in tourist offer, so Croatia and Slovenia have come to the idea of organising traditional Kvarner regattas. The area on both sides of the border, i.e. Slovenian Primorje, Istria and Kvarner is one of the most attractive tourist destinations of both countries. Mala barka 2 also stands for the project of valorisation of the maritime heritage of the Kvarner Region supported by the EU. Along with traditional regattas, maritime parades are also organised, any if you want to learn more about the rich heritage of the region make sure you visit the Maritime and History Museums in Rijeka and the Maritime Heritage Interpretation Centre in a fishing village Mošćenička Draga.

Beli, the Island of Cres

Griffon Vulture Centre

Beli, a place on the northern side of the Island of Cres, is well known as the home of the griffon vulture, as can be seen from the permanent exhibition dedicated to this bird of environmental and cultural significance for Cres. Last year the 1st phase of the Griffon Vulture Visitor Centre and Rehabilitation Facility was opened, featuring an aviary. The Centre greatly contributes to the protection of the environment and the vulture population. It is also a welcome addition to, and helps promote the tourism of Beli and the Cres-Lošinj and Kvarner area by providing authentic content stemming from centuries of co-existence of people and nature. The Visitor Centre will feature an area to accommodate volunteers, students and scientists and an area for educational and workshop activities. In the 1st phase of the Centre, the visitors can see exhibition on griffon vulture.

Vrbnik is situated on a steep cliff, and if you want to come closer you can do so only on foot. Vrbnik Žlahtina, produced in Vrbnik, is one of the most famous and best Croatian wines, and visitors of Kvarner can go on a tour of the vineyards and wine cellars and taste different žlahtina wines. Vrbnik is also well known for Valom, a unique sparkling wine that matures 30 meters underground. Vrbnik is home to the first Croatian hotel dedicated to wine, and inside its walls it also hides the narrowest ally in the world – Klančić.
